ABSTRACT

Over 300 resources on methods in cultural anthropology are listed under the following headings: archaeological methods; visual methods, tape recordings, and technical aids; cognitive anthropology and emic methods; community studies and complex societies; cross-cultural and hologeistic methods; ethnohistory; field work techniques and participant observation; general methodological handbooks; intra-cultural variations and their analysis; libraries, archives, and data banks; literary methods; formal and mathematical models; quantitative methods; scientific method; statistical techniques; and unobstrusive measures and secondary analysis. Materials, which include books, journal articles, and conference papers, are entered alphabetically by authors in each category. Information provided includes author, title, publication date, and, where relevant, publisher. Most materials were published between 1950 and 1984. (LP)
